Hawkman Soars Again

The Hawkworld series was pretty devastating for Hawkman: he lost the woman he loved at the hands of his adversary—and even the death of that enemy wasn't sufficient to balance the scales. So when Hawkman returns in his new ongoing series this July, you know it's going to be a harder-edged, grim avenger of the airways that the DC Universe will meet. As a matter of fact, no one is even sure that the new Hawkman is the same man who once wore the Hawk costume; Katar Hol has been missing for months, and the new man behind the hawk mask seems quite different from the old Hawkman.

Hawkman #1 introduces a Hawkman with a new look (a look that hearkens back to the Silver Age Hawkman), new powers, and a new superhero style. John Ostrander, who is certainly no stranger to hard-hitting superheroes, is the writer for the new series; he is joined by Jan Duursema and Rick Magyar.

In the first issue, Katar Hol's friends, the meta-human outcasts of the Netherworld, are attacked by a supervillain with murder on his mind as Deadline hits Chicago with a vengeance. His goal is to lure Hawkman into combat—but what will he do with him once he makes his appearance?...

Hawkman #1, a $2.50 comic with a foil-embossed cover, is scheduled for July 22nd release.

Life's Unkind to the Hyperkind

"How quickly they forget." This phrase takes on an added significance in Hyperkind, one of the four debut titles in Clive Barker's Razorline series of comics; as the book begins, four teenagers are seemingly the only humans who have any knowledge of a group of Golden Age heroes who were defeated decades ago. It's not that the public is fickle; the mystical forces that defeated the Paxis years ago also caused the group to be forgotten.

The four teenagers who are the stars of the Hyperkind not only remember the Paxis—they become the inheritors of their powers and their identities in this new superhero series. Not only do they have to "learn on the go," but they also have to defend themselves from the same villains who caused the destruction of the original team.

Hyperkind, one of four Clive Barker creations that kick off the Razorline imprint, offers fan an intriguing look at how Barker might reinterpret an X-Men-like teenage superteam; the ongoing monthly series is written by Fred Burke and illustrated by Paris Cullins and Bob Petrecca. Hyperkind #1, a $1.75 comic, is scheduled for July 15th release.

Building Excitement Ghost to Ghost

If you think you know all there is to know about the origin of Ghost Rider (or, to be more accurate, both Ghost Riders: the original, Johnny Blaze, and the current, Danny Ketch), then you're about to discover the error of your ways. In a six-part story debuting this summer, writer Howard Mackie probes the never-before-revealed details of Ghost Rider's origin in a series that will have lasting effects in the Ghost Rider mythos.

"The Road to Vengeance: The Missing Link," a story that will run through Ghost Rider #s 41-45 and Ghost Rider & Blaze: Spirits of Vengeance #14-16, will bring back one of the Ghost Rider's most deadly villains: the wicked Lilith. Joined by her abominable offspring the Lilin, she's ready to take on Ghost Rider and Blaze—and this time, she's shooting for a win! By the time the battle is over, Blaze will have a new look, new powers, and a new motivation. According to Marvel's Kevin Tang, "Road To Vengeance: The Missing Link reveals secrets that Ghost Rider and 'Midnight Sons' reads long for—we kid you not! Readers will learn if Ghost Rider is indeed Zarathos, what the connection is between John Blaze and Dan Ketch, who Dan's parents really are, and more."

To ensure that fans don't miss out on this six-issue series, Marvel is making the covers so colorfully eye-catching that no one can overlook them. Each cover will be printed with neon ink, making it stand out on the crowded summer comic-shop racks.

Ghost Rider #41, the kickoff book in the six-part storyline, is scheduled for July 15th release; the tale continues into Ghost Rider/Blaze: Spirits of Vengeance #14, a July 29th release. The events will continue on a biweekly schedule through the last week of September.

An Amazing Transformation

Recognize that rather ominous-looking fellow? If you don't, don't feel inadequate; he's an old Justice League villain, but he has adopted a new, very different look for his return confrontation with the League in Justice League International Quarterly #12. He's come to New York to wreak havoc in order to draw the League into a battle royale; alas, he didn't keep up with the superheroes' schedule ... the League is out of town! Thus, it's up to the Conglomerate to confront him in a story written by Mark Waid and illustrated by Daniel Rodrigues and Ken Branch—and you'll be amazed to see how it works out.

JLI Quarterly #12 will also continue the story of Praxis' search for a serial killer in a story written by Michael Jan Friedman and illustrated by Michael Mayhew and Dan Davis; if that isn't enough, there's also a Dr. Light story by Kim Fryer, Mike Wieringo, and Mike Christian. Justice League International Quarterly #12, a $3.50 80-page book, is scheduled for July 15th release.

No, Not Dinah Shore Films... Dinosaur Films!

Everyone's already speculating about this summer's hot dinosaur film, Steven Spielberg's Jurassic Park; this is far from the first film to focus on the thunder lizards, though. In fact, Kitchen Sink has tracked down dozens of dinosaur-oriented films—and they're spotlighting them in their new Dinosaur Nation Trading Card Set. Written and compiled by Michael Barson, this card series offers an insightful look at thirty-six films dealing with dinosaurs, including One Million B.C., The Lost World, The Lost Continent, Reptilicus, Rodan, and Journey to the Center of the Earth. Each card reproduces art from lobby cards, movie posters, or rarely-seen promotional photographs. Dinosaur Nation: 70 Years of Saurian Cinema, a $10.95 card set, is scheduled for July release.

No Pirates Atoll

Pirates of the Pacific may not feature any pirates, but it does feature one of the most stunning full-figure Doc Savage paintings ever done by Jim Bama. This distinctive cover painting is now being made available as another high-quality print; as with all of Graphitti Designs' lithographs, the print is being reproduced from the original artwork. James Bama's Pirates of the Pacific is the sixth lithograph in Graphitti's Doc Savage series; the print is being released in both a $29.95 standard edition of 950 and a $125 signed and numbered edition of 150. As with all specialty items of this sort, we recommend that you reserve a copy of this print with the friendly folks at your local comic shop—and tell 'em that you heard about it in CSN, okay?

Lowlife In Comic Shops This Summer

Ed Brubaker's Lowlife, the acclaimed semi-autobiographical series that rivals Yummy Fur and American Splendor in its common-man's view of contemporary life, is back! Originally published by Caliber Press, Lowlife finds a new home this summer at Æon Press. Lowlife #3, a $2.50 comic slated for July release, presents the hilarious story "Two Dicks," chronicling Tommy's misadventures working in a bookstore run by a burned-out old hippie. Fans who missed out on the original issues of Lowlife, Æon is also releasing The Portable Lowlife, a 48-page $4.95 collection that features all the material presented in Lowlife #s 1 & 2. This collection will also include a new story, "The Problem," available only in this book. Look for the return of this Harvey-Award-nominated series in late July.

Madman s Collection Is Limited

Madman, the eccentric, appealing series by Michael D. Allred that has become a favorite of hip comic fans everywhere, has reached a milestone: the first issue has sold out of its entire 39,000+ copy print run! "This was the most heavily and steadily reordered title we've ever had," Steven Ohlson-Wardlaw of Tundra said. Because the ongoing color Madman Adventures series continues to attract new readers, Tundra is planning a trade paperback collection of the original series for fall release—but because this series is being prepared in a limited first edition of 3000 copies, it too is likely to sell out. Tundra is planning a more generally-available second printing of the trade paperback to make sure that readers can enjoy the original Madman series while keeping up with the ongoing Madman Adventures.

Speaking of Madman Adventures, Tundra is boosting the pagecount by 50% while keeping the price stable at $2.95; this means that, beginning in July, fans will get 48 full-color pages of Madman Adventures every other month for the price of a 32-page book! Why, it's madness!...

A Banner Event In Spider-Man

So are these people who identify themselves as Peter Parker's parents really who they claim to be? That's a question that Peter would like to settle—and he sets out to do so in Amazing Spider-Man #381. This story, which is set in the aftermath of the Maximum Carnage storyline, will answer the question for once and for all—but neither writer David Michelinie nor artist Mark Bagley are saying just what the answer to the question is quite yet! The Incredible Hulk is also on hand in this issue—although judging by the cover, he's not doing too much to help the situation!... Amazing Spider-Man #381 is scheduled for July 15th release.

A Vinyl Statue? It s Only Natural!

The first statue of Robert Crumb's Mr. Natural, a limited edition epoxy composite, sold out immediately upon release and commands very high prices on the collectors' market. "But everybody needs a statue of this holy guru," Kitchen Sink said, "and in July, we're providing one."

The new Mr. Natural Vinyl Statue is a full color statue authorized by Crumb himself, packaged in a full color decorated box with an exclusive Mr. Natural trading card inside. And we're not talking about just a routine vinyl statue here—this Mr. Natural figure squeaks when you squeeze him! (Now there's the sort of action that no Marvel Comics action figure can duplicate!...)

The Mr. Natural Vinyl Statue, a 4" hand-painted figure, is priced at $19.95. As with all specialty items of this sort, you might want to let the friendly folks at your local comics shop know that you're interested—and tell 'em that you heard about it in CSN, okay?...

Quasar s Efforts Foiled In July

Can it be? Is Quasar really approaching his fiftieth issue? Apparently so—and to make sure that no one misses out on the celebration, Marvel is enhancing Quasar #50 with a holografx foil cover on the outside and oodles of guest-stars on the inside. In a special 48-page issue written by mark Gruenwald and illustrated by Andy Smith and Ralph Cabrera, Quasar joins forces with the Silver Surfer and lotsa other guest-stars when a traitor uses the Starbrand to seize control of the Nexus of Realities in Man-Thing's swamp. Quasar #50, a $2.95 comic, is scheduled for July 15th release.

Once... Twice... Three Times a Killer...

Death's Head was marginally popular, but Death's Head II was exponentially more successful in sales and fan appeal than its predecessor. So will the pattern continue with Death^3,, the newest Death's Head spinoff? In this four-issue limited series by Dan Abnett and Dell Barras, Dr. Necker (Death's Head II's creator) has built a new version of Minion—but his new creation soon goes AWOL, and he sends Death Mask out to track it down. The action soon gets positively lethal—but then, what did you expect from a book entitled Death^3?... The $2.95 premiere issue of this limited series, enhanced with a foil-embossed cover, is slated for July 22nd release.

Down the Line...

Marshal Law meets Hellraiser? That's what Epic has in store later this year; look for it to be one of the stranger crossovers in comic book history.. Neil Gaiman's resurrection of the Geek was such a success that he's doing it again; this time Prez makes a grand return.... Is Stephen King coming to comics? There's certainly a lot of talking going on... Look for a new Starman next year... When Daredevil gets a revamp this fall, look for a new Elektra as well (?)... It looks like Madman is getting ready to call Dark Horse home... Ann Nocenti and Kelley Jones doing a Venom limited series? It's true!... Could Deathmate cards be in your future? Don't be surprised if there are two series: one from Topps/Image and one from Upper Deck/Valiant... Supergirl finally earns her own series later this year or early next year... Joe (Marvel Masterpieces) Jusko is reportedly hard at work on a fully painted Edgar Rice Burroughs trading card series—Kreegah!... Is it true that Rob Liefeld laid out several pages of an upcoming Cable?!...

Blood Analysis

DC has revealed the New Blood heroes and villains who will be featured in the next four annuals—so we're passing the word along to you. Action Comics Annual #5, a July 15th release by Loeb and Moder, will introduce a new hero, Loose Cannon, described by DC's Patricia Jeres as "a bad attitude on two legs."

Legion of Super-Heroes Annual #5 brings the Legion back to the 20th Century, where they've come to retrieve Timber Wolf; when they return to their time, they take a parasite and his victim back with them. The victim, a surfer dude named Jamm, gains the power to control others... and he isn't using this power for good! Legion Annual #5, a July 22nd release, is written by Tom & Mary Bierbaum and illustrated by Stuart Immonen.

Green Arrow Annual #6 introduces the new hero the Hook; he was once a down-and-out Vietnam vet, but after his encounter with one of the alien parasites, he discovers that he has gained incredible super-powers... and his youth! Green Arrow Annual #6 is written by Mike Grell and illustrated by Michael Collins; look for it on July 29th.

Geist, the Twilight Man debuts in Detective Comics Annual #6, an August 5th release. Geist's premiere is written by Chuck Dixon and illustrated by Jim Balent, the penciller of the new Catwoman series.

Justice League America Annual #7 introduces a new villain, the Terrorsmith; he has the ability to distort others' bodies at will. He is convinced that the Justice League has caused his bizarre alteration, so he turns his wrath on them in a story by William Messner-Loebs, Greg LaRocque, and Sal Velluto. JLA Annual #7 is scheduled for August 12th release.

This annuals mark the midway point of DC's 25-part storyline; in the next few issues, CSN will let you know what other heroes and villains you can keep an eye open for through the remainder of the summer and on into the fall.

A Considerate, Caring Philistine

One of the mixed blessings of the modern comic book industry is the coupon mail-in promotion: it often offers the fan a bonus item they would not morally be able to acquire, which is good—but it requires the fan to deface his comic by cutting out the coupon, which often means that he has to buy two copies of the book in order to have a complete collection. One-Shot Press has found a solution to the problem with its new six-issue miniseries, The Philistine; they've devised what they call the "collector-friendly" giveaway plan.

Each issue of the comic book will feature a numbered coupon that will apply towards a copy of The Philistine #0; however, One-Shot is inserting the coupons into the comic so that they just slip out of the book without requiring tearing or cutting. This way the book remains intact. Even better, when you order Philistine #0, they not only send you the comic book, but they also send back your coupons! You can insert them back into the book and it's once again complete.

The Philistine, written by Michael Mongillo and illustrated by Mike Zittel and Ken Grenier, presents what One-Shot Press calls "the vigilante of the 90's! Creeps, crooks. cops. . who cares?! Wry and occasionally tongue in cheek. The Philistine combines the bombast of new comics with a Silver Age flavor..." Comic artist Dave Cockrum described the book as "well designed and fabulously styled." The Philistine #1, a September release, is priced at $2.50.

An Equal Opportunity Green Lantern Corps

Month after month, the various Green Lantern books present male Green Lanterns—so Green Lantern Corps Quarterly #6 sets out to balance the scales just a little bit by focusing on several female Green Lanterns. Ruben Diaz, Travis Charest, and Ray McCarthy introduce Laira a new ninja Green Lantern who hopes to free her homeworld from the grip of the Golden Dragon. Boodikka, the loudest Green Lantern, stars in a story by Gerard Jones, Scott Kolins, and Ray Kryssing. Mike Baron, Chas Truog, and Kim DeMulder focus on a female Green Lantern who refuses to let her power ring separate her from her humanity. Finally, the Alan Scott Green Lantern story reveals the truth about the new Harlequin (see, you knew there'd be a female angle to this story with a male hero, didn't you?) in a story by Ron Marz, Jim Balent, and Andrew Pepoy. Green Lantern Corps Quarterly #6, a $2.95 book, is scheduled for July 22nd release.

Big Whelan Keeps On Turnin (Out Great Paintings, That Is)

Since Comic Images has offered cards featuring the work of noted fantasy artists like Frank Frazetta, Boris Vallejo, and Greg Hildebrandt, it's no surprise that their latest fantasy offering highlights the work of another major name in the sf/fantasy industry, Michael Whelan. Multi-time Hugo winner Whelan has illustrated some of the most popular book covers in recent years; his paintings never fail to attract attention because of their lavish detail, dynamic design, and rich color. Michael Whelan's Adventures In Fantasy Cards offers fans logo-free versions of ninety of his best cover paintings; as a bonus, CI is also adding three randomly inserted Spectrascope and three Opti-Prism chase cards to the packs. Priced at $1 per ten-card pack, the cards should be in comic shops in July.

Post-Secondary Series A First-Rate Effort

College is a time of transition for virtually everyone, whether they're real people or the fictitious stars of a comic book series. Grey Legacy, a new Fragile Elite Studio release by Wayne Wise and Fred Wheaton, has a variety of science-fictional trappings... but readers will be surprised to discover that the problems that the book's protagonists face are all to familiar to today's audiences. In the future, they may become universally important—but right now they're freshmen in Gorphtex University, the galaxy's largest institution of higher learning, and they're trying to cope with the changes in both their educational and their social lives.

Grey Legacy focuses on Greylock, a taciturn philosophy student whose life and future legacy form the nexus of the tale. Other characters who play prominent roles in the series include Lesterfarr, a freshman who is advanced in the study of technobiology by all to backwards in social skills; Taija, the object of Les's infatuation; and Bilmar, an alien whose uninhibited nature serves as a pleasant contrast to the other characters.

Grey Legacy began as a series of minicomics; thanks to a grant from Peter Laird's Xeric Foundation, though, Wise and Wheaton are now able to bring their character-oriented sf series to a much broader audience. Grey Legacy #1, a $2.75 comic, is scheduled for late June release.
